BACK2SCHOOL

Heading back to school can be overwhelming for kids and parents alike. Aside from all the school supplies and new jeans to sport, there's the health of your kids to think about. Vaccinations, physical exams and managing lunches are three things you can do to keep your kids healthy for the whole school year. Here are a couple of tips to consider.

Vaccinations? Check.
There are many different illnesses affecting our youth. But often times they can be preventable with the right immunization. Talk to our pharmacist about which vaccinations are right for your children. Immunization schedules do vary from state to state, but your Health Mart pharmacist can help provide information if you want to know which vaccines to get and when/how often to do them. While many people are electing not to vaccinate children, current research shows that measles are on the rise across the nation.

Abolish Acne
Your kids are growing up and when puberty hits, so too does acne — rearing it's ugly head (or heads). Check out our Health Mart store for wide variety of products that can help keep your child's skin in the clear, like the ACNE FREE Acne Cleaning System that compares to Proactiv... it's a featured Sale Item in our circular this month! Skin care tools such as cleansers and acne treatments can really help diminish the unwanted attention that acne brings about — keeping your child's skin radiant and acne free.
